FREE CLINIC TO APPLY SCHICK TEST FOR DIPHTHERIA MONDAY

Local Health Board Arranges to Have State Experts at City Laboratory on Monday Afternoon—Parents Should Bring Their Children to Clinic.

The local health board has arranged to have a free clinic Monday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the city laboratory on John street, where the Schick test will be applied by Dr. Laidlaw and Dr. Godfrey, two experts from the state health department.

Those who are Schick-tested and found susceptible to diphtheria are then given an injection of toxin-antitoxon, which immunizes the one receiving it for a period of at least seven years.

Monday the pupils at the Livingston Street Lutheran parochial school received the test, which was read today by the experts. Those found reacting to the test were given an injection of the preventative.

Last year by use of the Schick test diphtheria was practically eliminated from the Industrial Home and St. Joseph's parochial school.

It is expected that in time efforts will be made to have the Schick test applied to all of the pupils attending school in Kingston.

There have been five deaths so far this year from diphtheria which is the reason for holding the free clinic on Monday in an effort to stamp out the disease.

BIG REPUBLICAN MEETING MONDAY

United States Senator Wadsworth and Others Will Discuss Campaign Issues—All Speakers Well Known Here.

United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., senior senator of the state of New York, who will speak at Monday night's big Republican mass meeting at the Kingston Opera House, is one of the most pleasing public speakers who has ever addressed an Ulster county audience, and the city and county are fortunate to have so talented a speaker and statesman here.

Colonel William J. Donovan of Buffalo, who will also be one of the speakers, has achieved a reputation for ability and brilliancy which has made him one of the foremost leaders of Erie county, and his unanimous selection by the recent Republican state convention for the nomination for lieutenant governor is a high tribute to the esteem in which he is held everywhere. His record throughout the World War made him a conspicuous figure but he modestly disclaims all credit for his own accomplishments and says the real record of accomplishment was made by the men who never came back from the war.

Congressman Charles B. Ward's record of public service to the voters of the Twenty-seventh Congressional district is a record seldom equalled and his constant effort to prove in every way what a public official should be to his constituents have been so successful that he will be accorded a warm welcome by the voters of Kingston city and Ulster county.

Arthur F. Bouton of Roxbury, Delaware county, who will be another speaker, is the Republican nominee for senator in this district and is less known for his appearance on the political platform than for his appearances in the supreme court on many occasions on behalf of clients. He is a lawyer of ability whose wide activity in the practice of his profession has made him a conspicuous figure in this section of the state.

An opportunity to hear the campaign issues discussed by these four speakers is not always given to a community during a campaign, and the reception which the speakers will receive from the men and women voters on Monday night will be a good indication of the interest which the voters are taking in the present campaign. The meeting at the Opera House will begin at eight o'clock.

GEORGE WASHINGTON CAPTAIN MERCIFUL TO PASSENGERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cherbourg, Oct. 14.—"Leave us one last drink," begged thirsty passengers on the American liner George Washington as sailors started to unload the bar stocks in accordance with orders received from the United States Shipping Board.

Captain Cunningham explained that Attorney General Daugherty had ruled that ships bearing liquor could not enter American ports.

This only made the passengers more insistent. Captain Cunningham's heart melted and he ordered the sailors to return some of the cases of liquors to the hold. He said that what was not consumed in mid-ocean, would be thrown overboard before the three-mile limit was reached.

The passengers lined the rail and cheered loudly for Captain Cunningham meanwhile assuring him that it would not be necessary to put a stick in the Atlantic.

France Farm Sold.

Mrs. France, through Real Estate Broker Moore, 562 Broadway, has sold her farm at Ruby to Costos Sakalos of New York city. Mr. Sakalos intends making this a summer home for his family.

WHAT THE SCHICK TEST DEVELOPED

The experts from the state department of health read the Schick test at the Livingston Street Lutheran School, and the test showed that of the 47 pupils that had received the test 27 were susceptible to diphtheria and the first injection of toxin-antitoxin was made. Fifteen of the pupils were negative and five were absent when the test was read.

At the clinic to be held Monday it is hoped that parents will bring their children who are under school age to the city laboratory that afternoon so that they can receive the test.

MOTION IN GRAND GORGE ACCIDENT CASE ARGUED

Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., on Friday argued a motion for Senator Russell of New York before Judge Staley in supreme court here asking permission for the examination of witnesses before trial in the action brought by Lottie Borst of Otego against the Ulster and Delaware Railroad. H. H. Flemming appeared for the railroad and opposed the motion. Plaintiff's attorney asked to examine the witnesses for defendant company before trial in order to determine in just what capacity plaintiff was employed by defendant company and just what his work was at the time of the accident so as to determine under what provision of the law the action should be brought. An action has been brought for $75,000 in the supreme court and the case has been noticed for trial at the Delaware county term which convenes Monday. The plaintiff's attorney claims that under certain conditions of employment an action could be brought in supreme court and under other conditions the matter would be cared for under the Workmen's Compensation act. The purpose of the examination of witnesses before trial is to determine in what court the action should be brought.

Defendant opposed the motion on the ground that an action had already been brought in supreme court and that when this case came up for trial it could be determined whether the action had been brought in the proper court and also on the ground that the examination of witnesses was for the purpose of preparing for trial.

Judge Staley reserved decision and the case will not be moved for trial in Delaware county until the motion has been decided. The action grows out of the death of husband of plaintiff who was in the employ of the railroad and who was killed in a collision between a work train and a coal train near the Grand Gorge station. Mr. Borst left beside his widow three small children aged 11, 7 and 5.

EUROPE TODAY AS ROSELLI FOUND IT

Professor of Italian at Vassar College Describes Conditions as He Found Them Abroad—Reconstruction Work Progressing—Work, Instead of Moaning, the Remedy for Industrial Evils.

Dr. Bruno Roselli, professor of Italian at Vassar College, gave a lecture in the chapel of the First Reformed Church Friday evening, under the auspices of the Vassar Group in Kingston, on the subject, "Truth and Fiction about Post-bellum Life in Europe," that was exceedingly illuminating and informing. Dr. Roselli was introduced by the Rev. Dr. Boeve, pastor of the church, who reminded the audience that while it was interesting perhaps to read or hear of the reports of post-bellum conditions in Europe by the casual visitor, the reports could scarcely be given much credence. Therefore it was all the more of a privilege to hear from one who was a European-born man, and who had made extensive investigations into conditions since the the war.

Dr. Roselli is a clear, concise, appealing speaker. He said that in choosing his subject he had no idea of its being an aggressive or militaristic title. He did feel that in the face of the many strange tales told by people hurrying through post-war Europe with opportunity for only a superficial judgment of conditions, it would be but fair to relate conditions as he found them.

With the exception of a very few hotels in some places visited only by Americans there were two prices, one for the native patrons, another for foreign guests. It is perfectly safe to travel in Italy in spite of former President Wilson's Adriatic policy, etc. Tales to the contrary were not malicious but the result of intense superficiality on the part of observers. Having been born in Italy and having lived in Europe before the war, Dr. Roselli has returned to Europe summer after summer since living in America, traveling extensively and he hoped intelligently through the various countries, thus having exceptional opportunity to compare the past and present. The speaker reminded his hearers that Europe was a non-freakish land that one visited and revisited time and again.

Part of the anti-European propaganda has proclaimed that European traveling conditions are abominable and unendurable. While the trains are not yet back to pre-war state, they can well be called comfortable for all who do not count physical comfort as the paramount thing in life. To be sure one may now and then have to take a train at 6 a. m. when one would prefer to begin a journey at 10 a. m., but the speaker noted that even Americans do survive such conditions at home, and the service is, as he said, "comfortable."

On this last visit of Dr. Roselli to Europe, counting the countries of Europe as a unit, he said that he was tremendously impressed with the recuperative powers of the land. Born a pessimist, grown an optimist—though not of the Pollyanna type—Dr. Roselli stated that he had become fully convinced that there was ample room for everybody in the world, who was willing to work instead of only wanting to moan. In Europe the after-the-war work is being carried on with magnificent optimism.

That there are differing degrees of optimism and recuperation in England, France, Belgium, Italy and even Germany, was due in great measure to the differing degree in which the currency of the land has been reduced. While English people are continually groaning under their burden of taxation, which is indeed tremendous, their currency has lost only about 10 per cent of its purchasing value, a pound sterling being about 90 per cent of its pre-war value. In France the currency has only about 40 per cent and in Italy about 22 per cent of the pre-war value, yet those countries, too, are staggering under an enormous taxation. Again, the speaker compared England to a mother, temporarily financially embarrassed, but who can turn to any one of her daughters, Canada, Australia, India, and say, "Here, daughter just pay this for me until I can adjust my finances." Dr. Roselli said that because of this very financial condition in England making it possible for the British to travel, to come to America, the next ten years would see a marked increase in friendliness between Great Britain and America, and that because of social as well as the financial conditions.

"France is very bitter," said Dr. Roselli, "as is easy to understand of any country bordering on Germany for centuries of history and thousands of miles of border land. Because of her magnificent spirit, ever-buoyant France is and has been either loved or hated and is today. Just now France is bitter toward America as she shows by insinuations that "America are always a little late; that they can afford to pay more since they have a good standard," etc.

However, France is wonderfully thrifty, and once having corrected herself of the idea of being suspicious of other countries, she will become a very good neighbor to those other countries.

Dr. Roselli wondered why, on the front as visited him, he found factories rebuilt and operating industriously while the people were still living in the cellars of their ruined homes; in corners of almost destroyed buildings. He learned that they were not rebuilding their individual houses because those sec-

EXPOSITION WANTS LADIES TO DRESS UP IN FINE CLOTHES

Living Models Will be a Feature of the Style Show but Thus Far They Have Not Been Selected—Exposition Grounds Look Like a New Oil City at Present—Main Tents are Erected.

In order to make final arrangements for the style shows the merchants who will purchase space are asked to meet Monday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30. In this connection the Chamber of Commerce announces that they desire the servies of ten young ladies to act as models. Less than an hour's time will be required for five or six evenings. They will wear a lot of fine clothes, be given passes to the exposition and all the dances and have a good time generally. In addition to this the Exposition treasurer will hand them each a check. Please apply to the Chamber of Commerce office Monday or Tuesday if possible or if in the evening to L. C. Dupree at the Eagle Hotel.

The main tents for the Kingston Exposition at the Fair Grounds are up. Khaki colored with red borders and flags flying from the tall poles, they make a gala appearance and are a promise of the good times in store for the people of Kingston and Ulster county.

Schryver Bros. trucks have been hauling lumber for several days and at 8 this morning several carpenters began laying the floors. Wiring for the lights will be started by Tudor-off Bros. and boys are wanted by the National Decorations Company to assist their field manager, Karl W. Miller, who is here to install a very beautiful decorative scheme, that will transform the tents into a bower of beauty.

Fair grounds look like a new oil city this morning with canvas going up, trucks coming and going and canvas men, carpenters, electricians, and others working with a will to get the place in shape for the exhibitors.

Speaking of exhibitors they are busy planning beautiful decorations and unique displays and many have started the work in their stores. There is going to be a determined but good natured rivalry to win the awards for the best displays.

The Japanese Tea Garden will be close to the entertainments and the Women's New Era League of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church are planning a dainty place and their skill in cooking is well known. Through the courtesy of L. Barth & Son, Inc., they will use eletric ranges and plate warmers, manufactured by that firm.

Across from the Tea Garden and occupying also a special tent will be the Kingston Public School Exhibit. How successfully the arts and crafts are now taught our young folks will be exemplified in this display.

POLICE SEARCH FOR GLAND THIEF

Chicago Turns Out Something New in the Way of Highway Robbery and Kidnapping.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Hunt for a doctor who carried through the first human gland theft in history, was under way by the police today.

At the same time, Dr. H. M. McKechnie, president of the Chicago Medical Society, announced that his organization would do everything in its power to aid the police.

The victim of the gland theft was Joseph Wooseniak, a laborer who came here recently from the Wisconsin beet fields.

According to the story Wooseniak told Dr. A. Sampolinski, who reported the case to the police, he was walking along a street when an automobile drew up, four men leaped out, threw a bag over his head and dragged him into the machine.

He was chloroformed, he said, and when he regained consciousness, he found himself on a sidewalk under a viaduct. The operation had been performed—with expect skill.

It was believed by the police that some wealthy and perhaps aged man, was benefited by the criminal action.

Wooseniak is 34 years old, married 12 years, but has no children.

LLOYD-GEORGE SAYS NEAR EAST POLICY AVERTED ANOTHER WORLD WAR

Britain's Premier Scores "The Old Diplomacy," Intimates That He Will Retire, and Indicates Some of the Problems That Will Confront His Successor.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Manchester, England, Oct. 14.—In a political speech of supreme importance, in which he claimed that British policy in the Near East prevented another World War, Premier Lloyd-George strongly indicated today that he is prepared to resign at once from the premiership.

The premier made the startling revelation that 2,000,000 Greek and Armenian Christians have been slaughtered by the Turks since 1914. He scored "the old diplomacy" which, he charged, brought about the most disastrous war in the world's history.

While Lloyd-George did not make a definite statement on retirement, it is believed that his speech indicates that he will resign shortly, turning over the premiership to the conservatives, hoping he will be called for later on.

In this connection, the premier said: "I shall watch many things—how are we going to forgive Germany—reparations—how are we going to make France love us—how are we going to pay the United States? Yes, it will be interesting to see the work of others."

The premier declared that his future course is clear, adding:

"I shall support any government which devotes itself to measures that do not inflict injury upon the country, whether these measures are reactionary or revolutionary. The future is perplexing. I shall not claim any personal party gain."

As he drew near the end of his speech, the premier dramatically declared:

"If this were the last day I held my high office, I would be proud that it has given me the last few weeks in which to exert the might of this empire. We can thank God that Britain has kept faith."

HARDING EXTENDS WETNESS OF SHIPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 14.—President Harding again postponed today the enforcement of the drastic liquor regulations as they affect foreign vessels.

Announcement was made at the White House that the president had signed an order etxending until October 21, a week from today, the date under which foreign vessels may freely enter and leave American territorial waters with their liquor unmolested by government enforcement agents.

ARREST DELANOY FOR BURGLARY

Brewster Street Youth Accused of Entering O'Connor Home on Johnston Avenue—Police Allege He Sold Stolen Watch to Carnival Employe.

George Delanoy, 19 years old, of No. 4 Brewster street, was arrested by Sergeant Phinney Friday afternoon on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree in entering the home of James J. O'Connor on Johnston avenue several weeks ago and stealing jewelry. The boy's mother furnished bail in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance in police court today, when he was represented by Judge W. D. Brinnier, Jr., and entered a plea of not guilty. The hearing was adjourned to Monday, October 23, and bond continued.

The arrest of Delanoy followed several weeks of hard work on the part of the police department, who learned that one of the Fink Carnival Company employes while playing in Mutton Hollow, just over the city line, at the time of the burglary, had bought a gold watch for five dollars.

The carnival employe, Ralph Guy, of Glens Falls, came to Kingston on Friday and picked out young Delanoy from several young men as the youth who had sold him the watch for $5. Guy claimed that Delanoy had said at the time that he needed the money to get out of town.

Guy's affidavit was attached to the information lodged against Delanoy by Chief of Police J. Allan Wood.

Part of the jewelry stolen from the O'Connor home, consisting of a cameo pin and a buckle, were found a few days ago in the yard of Charles Warren on Clinton avenue.

BILLY MISKE LOSES CHANCE TO COME BACK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 14.—The efforts of Billy Miske to fight his way back into another bout with Jack Dempsey, collapsed with a flat thud today as the result of his somewhat doubtful victory over Tommy Gibbons on a foul last night in the tenth round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout.

Twenty-seven seconds after the tenth round has started, Gibbons shot a short right jolt to the body. Miske sank to the floor, his face distorted into a painful grimace and his hands clutched over his groin. Referee McPartland was not in a position to see the blow and asked the opinion of Artie McGovern, one of the judges. McGovern ruled it was a foul punch and Gibbons was disqualified.

Previous to the unsatisfactory ending, Gibbons had given Miske a thorough trouncing.

The sudden ending of the fight proved unsatisfactory to a crowd of more than 13,000 who jammed the garden. Miske was roundly booed when he left the ring while Gibbons, who appeared stunned at his disqualification, came in for wild cheers.

The boxing commission ordered the purses of both Gibbons and Miske held up pending an investigation of the bout.

Following the contest, McGovern, who decided on the foul blow, declared:

"There is no doubt that it was a foul punch but it was not low enough to completely incapacitate Miske."

SOUND DEATH KNELL OF DETOUR IN NEW PROCESS OF BUILDING

Laying Pavement Over Half of Roadbed at One Time, Leaving Other Half Open to Traffic.

Elimination of the "detour bogey," the bane of every touring motorist's life, is seen as the successful outcome of recent experiments in what may be termed "split crown" construction of concrete roads.

The new method lies simply in laying paving over but half of the roadbed at one time, keeping the remaining half open to traffic as the work progresses. This method has been found particularly effective in rough and hilly country where detours are practically impossible, but urgent appeals from automobile owners who have experienced the torture of detouring by night, may bring it into general use.

Co-operation Essential.

Careful co-operation between the motoring public and the contractor is, however, essential. By stationing responsible guards at each end of the open strip, traffic may be sent over the route, first in one direction and then in the other, without danger.

Great care must be exercised by the contractor in order to avoid settlement of dust particles on the freshly-laid paving. In order to insure the proper curing of the concrete it is necessary that he keeps the unimproved side of the road well sprinkled at all times. Failure to do this would affect the concrete to an extent that might cause "scaling" in later years.

Following the completion of the first section of paving, it must be permitted to harden under expert "curing" supervision for at least 30 days. At the end of this period it may then be opened to traffic while work is begun upon the second strip.

Two Principal Virtues.

Although a slight increase in original cost may be charged against this method, it has two principal virtues which commend it to the taxpayer and the motorist alike. Doing away as it does with the detour, it cuts cost of motor operation more than half aside from the big item of decreased danger and loss of time and patience. Secondly, it eliminates the cross-wise cracks which appear in some hard-surface roads through letting down of the grading after the paving is completed. The joint where the two sides come together leaves an almost imperceptible line in the exact center of the roadway. This is known as a construction joint and allows just sufficient "play" to obviate the chance that imperfect grading or poor designing on the part of the contractor might result in unsightly cracks.

The accompanying illustration shows this system in use in Litchfield county, Connecticut, in foothills of the Berkshires, where it is reported to be "holding up" under the most severe traffic conditions.

QUALITY OF OIL IS IMPORTANT

Poor Lubrication Generally the Cause of Excessive Piston Friction.

REDUCES POWER OF ENGINE

Unbroken Oil Film Should Always Be Maintained Between Pistons and Cylinder Walls — "Thinning" Detrimental to Vital Parts.

It is not generally realized how much the useful power of an engine is reduced by the friction of its pistons upon their cylinder walls. Normal piston friction is altogether the greatest mechanical loss in the engine, if not in the whole car and, if it becomes abnormal in amount, car performance suffers in a marked degree. The fuel may do its full work upon the pistons, but if this force is too largely wasted in overcoming their friction, the power left over for moving the car is seriously reduced.

In the case of cars, in the engines of which new tightly-fitted pistons and rings have just been installed, useful power is sometimes so diminished by undue piston friction that even slight grades cannot be negotiated on "high" until these parts become smoothed and "worn in" by their prolonged mutual rubbing action. Such a condition is occasional only, but piston friction may, at any time, become excessive and engine performance unsatisfactory, through poor lubrication and it is, in this connection, that the quality of oil used is of great importance, for it is a fact that, without causing acute damage to the parts, excessive friction may exist during much of the time that an engine is in operation, to the detriment of its performance and with extensive resulting wear.

To secure perfect piston lubrication and thus to minimize friction, it is essential that there should always be an unbroken oil film maintained between pistons and cylinder walls and, to insure this, the oil must not become so thin as to be squeezed out from between their opposing surfaces. Detrimental thinning of the oil may result from its quality or its grade being such that it loses its "body" or thickness at the higher engine temperatures, or it may be due to unburned fuel passing the pistons, dissolving the lubricant upon them and entering the crank-case below.

The precautions necessary to be taken are to use only oil of such heat-resisting quality and such initial viscosity as shall not become watery at the highest allowable engine temperature and, furthermore, to renew the oil supply before it becomes objectionably thinned by the addition of unburned gasoline components.

Real Invention.

Owners' name plates, to be attached to umbrella rods above the upper catches have been invented by a resident of Seattle.

You Auto Know

That one of the principal reasons that tires wear out before their guarantee has expired is carelessness in driving along poorly paved streets or rough roads. The "shell holes" which appear in macadam or asphalt streets especially in the spring, after the ice has loosened a portion of the hard surface, are particularly hard on tires, for the sharp edges may gash the fabric and the jar incident to the sudden rise and fall may give rise to bruises and blisters which injure the inner casing.

The habit of driving in ruts or along car-tracks, is also very hard on tires, for the projecting sides rub against the side of the tire above the tread and soon wear this away, making it easy for water to enter and rot the fabric. In addition, turning corners at a high rate of speed or skidding of any kind—whether on a wet street, or in starting or stopping too suddenly—also grinds the tires and causes needless wear. Habits of this kind leave their marks plainly upon the tires and prevent the driver from securing the refund to which he is entitled if the guaranteed mileage is not forthcoming.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Wet rubber cuts more easily than the same substance dry.

* * *

New cars should be driven rather slowly for the first 1,000 miles. Never more than 30 miles per hour.

* * *

Two spare tires are usually carried in the car, but occasionally there are three or more punctures on one trip.

* * *

There is frequently danger of short circuits in the battery because of the fact that one of the terminals is located near the metal handle used for lifting the battery.

* * *

An indelible pencil is best for marking the spot where a leak is found in a tube. The indelible mark will remain, as the wet rubber helps dissolve the lead of the pencil.

* * *

Be sure to have the valve stem and stay bolts tight on the tire when attached to the rim of the wheel. It will keep water and dirt from getting into the casing on wet or dirty roads.

* * *

A monthly inspection should be made of the brake rods and connecting parts. Clean off all the accumulated dirt and rust, so that they will act as freely and efficiently as possible.

Green Dye From Corn Cobs.

Science has found a way of utilizing all corn cobs, short or long, in the manufacture of various chemicals. As the corn cob consists of cellulose, which is valuable for the making of many products, such as celluloid and paper, it is considered desirable to save the substance of the cob. The furfural, therefore, is taken from the extract which is obtained by boiling the cob in water and the cellulose can thus be kept for other purposes.

This liquid is employed for many purposes in industrial chemistry, and can be so treated that it will yield a bright green dye, which is much liked by women of fashion, says the Detroit News.

Giving Children Good Teeth.

Here are the rules of the British Dental association for the care of children's teeth:

Be sure the child sleeps with the mouth shut, and when awake breathes through the nose. From the age of two let each meal contain some food that needs grinding. Begin the child's education in hard foods at nine months by giving it a bone, preferably a chop bone, with a little meat on, to exercise its gums. Do not let children drink until the end of the meal. Avoid many sweets and sweet biscuits, and only give them as part of a meal. Finish each meal with a piece of fresh fruit or crisp salad, or, if these are not obtainable, a stale crust of bread, with butter if preferred, but not with jam.

Not for Peepers.

At one time Blackpool, famous English watering place, was celebrated for the propriety of her bathing arrangements. When a bell rang at a fixed hour all ladies wishing to bathe came out clad in voluminous costumes, while every man had to remain indoors. Any man discovered in the street or at the window was fined a bottle of wine. When a second bell rang after the ladies had finished, the men came out similarly protected.

Japan's Unique Population.

There has never before been a nation at once so numerous and so homogeneous as the Japanese. Their population is estimated at somewhere between 60,000,000 and 75,000,000. Their territory, hardly so extensive as was controlled by our Revolutionary colonies, contains from half to three-quarters as many people as inhabit the whole United States. This population, too, is remarkably uniform. Those who know Japan best agree that, if we except the negligible aborigines of some northern provinces, you can hardly find among the Japanese any difference much more pronounced than those which might distinguish New Hampshire from Connecticut. Compare this with our country, or with the widely various races and languages of China or of India, or with England, Scotland and Wales, and you will see that the patriotism of Japan has to sanction its intensity a population unique in human record. —Scribner's Magazine.

tions had not been investigated to find out what amount of reparations were due them from the Germans, for the damage done their homes. It is only within the past year that France has realized that beyond a certain limit Germany cannot repay, no matter how great damage she may have done, and that to demand more would be killing their debtor, which is not sense. So at last they are showing signs of willingness to rebuild in many parts where before they were unwilling. Still France counts what Germany owes her, in her budget, something which no other allied nation does.

In Belgium Dr. Roselli found far less hatred of the Germans than in France and for two reasons. Although invaded first, Belgium was never destroyed. Yielding to the German invasion, it had its factories seized and used by the Germans, but after the war they were returned and at once could be used. Again it has been decided by the reparations committee that Belgium shall receive payment of the reparations due her at once and has so received. Louvaine before the war had 1,100 houses and now it has 1,000, for the most part more beautiful and more expensive than those destroyed. While there was much of inestimable value in Belgium that can never be replaced, still such as can be replaced can be made better than before.

In Italy the conditions are still different. The lira is worth only one-fourth or one-fifth of its pre-war value. While prices are very low, government has fixed the prices and much revenue comes into the government from the luxury taxes. For instance at the hotels; the government has fixed certain prices for the De Luxe hotels; the first class hotels, the second class hotels, etc. At the De Luxe hotels one pays 17½ per cent luxury tax on everything, but there is absolutely no tipping except in a very few hotels visited by Americans only who cannot seem to learn that they are not wanted to offer tips. At the departure of the traveler there is no waiting line ready for gratuities, only the concierge to bow one farewell as the last vestige of the host and guest ideal. It has proven to be a wonderfully successful system, inaugurating a new era of things. The same system has been successfully inaugurated in France the past year, and the prices are very low.

Dr. Roselli called his own people, voluble, easily forgetting, which accounts for their having quite forgotten the Wilson episode. In fact he showed the United States to be quite behind the times in comparison to Europe. Asked about the League, Europeans ask what "League?" "Oh, yes," they have a league which while it is working they know, has not been specially discovered by them. The league works but they don't know how it works. "Europe forgets and looks ahead."

Lastly, as regard to the nations. Dr. Roselli spoke of destitute Austria and Germany. He considered almost humorously the Americans who visiting Germany shut their eyes to all they saw of change in Germany while traveling across the country to Oberammergau the one spot in Germany that has not changed and will not change for years; to the Americans, who with continued hatred of the Germans in their hearts went on a religious pilgrimage to witness the only serious, sacredly presented story of the passion of Jesus Christ! A strange twist of mind the speaker thought.

In Germany there are the exceedingly hard conditions of living four years after the war that we all endured during the war, and Dr. Roselli said that he felt that he could scarcely eat to the full even at the hotel where it was possible, for thinking of those who were going without food. The people in Germany are working eleven hours a day, while already in France they are observing in Paris a combination of the American Saturday and French Sunday which continued to 2 o'clock Monday, work being abandoned at noon on Saturday and not resumed until 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon following.

The speaker considered the treatment of Austria nothing short of a crime and showed the impossibility of successfully "turning over Austria to France for economic reasons." He said, "Turning live people over to other people may follow but the principles of political economy but not those of common sense." It was Dr. Roselli's firm belief that the world has even now grown more spiritual than the political economists want it to be. Even the immigrants coming to this land, are recognized as the best, not so much for the money they contribute as for the character and spirit they give. He warned of the advisability of being on our guard against the immigrants, possibly arrived at the white-collar stage, who in their meetings are trying to find some way to get an extra five cents out of their employer, and appealed for deeper sympathy for these immigrants, perhaps with no collars at whose meetings the objective was higher ideals of some sort, better better service to one another and the world, the visionaries. He counted them of the same kind of leaven as the New England and other early settlers of the United States who came here for an ideal.

In Europe the people have suffered and they have learned the value of the intangible. They have ideals such as are never found in neutral countries. Take Greece. She talked the loudest, came into the war last and on her own terms. Assailed now by the Turks she crumbles because she had no vision and refinement of suffering. She was the only one of the combatants not formed for something higher in the crucible of suffering.

Dr. Roselli closed his talk with a description of a small picture which he held in his hand, a war picture including a dying soldier whose spirit, one realized from his very look, must go on forever, for the dead of the great war we must think of surely as marching on, not settled down into a cosy bit of paradise. And they are marching on in spirit, in and through us, making us better in a spiritual way, with a new conscience of ancient evils. "Their martyrdom, is it not going to work its good work through us?" asked Dr. Roselli. "Is it not going to give us the courage to say right things for those who do not dare say them for themselves?"

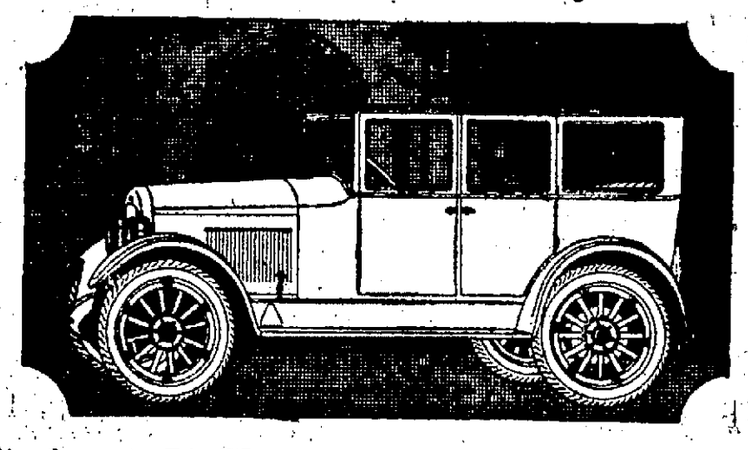
A Roomy Sedan of Sturdy Strength



6 Cylinders—50 Horsepower—5 Passenger—$1465

The price of the Jewett Sedan is so astonishingly low that unless one has personal knowledge of the character and quality of this car of amazing value, a false classification is not an unnatural impression.

The Jewett is not a "light six" Sedan. It is a roomy, powerful, five-passenger enclosed car of distinction. It is powered with a six cylinder, 3¼ x 5 inch motor installed in a husky chassis in which every unit is built for excess strength.

Here is a Sedan that can be matched only by enclosed cars selling for at least $500 more than the Jewett. This is a statement certainly worth investigating. You can prove its validity by a demonstration which will be arranged to suit your convenience.

Do You Want— Your Government Deadlocked for Two Years?

Since March 4, 1921, both the executive and legislative branches of the Government have been under control of the Republican party. Whatever improvement there has been since then in the conduct of public affairs and in conditions in the business world has been due to the close co-operation between these two branches of Government, both under Republican control.

No Congress ever came into power with a greater program to be carried out. No Congress in time of peace ever enacted so much constructive and helpful legislation. No Congress has ever enacted a greater percentage of legislation promised by its party, or requested by a President of its own political faith. This is a matter of record, not of opinion.

This Congress has enacted no destructive legislation, no class legislation, no legislation which intimidated business, frightened capital, or injured industry. It has co-operated with the Republican executives, in charge of the various Departments, and with the Republican President to bring about a return of normal conditions.

A Democratic Congress would deadlock the Government. It would place the executive and legislative branches in antagonism. It would block all further progress along lines already laid down, but it would be unable on the other hand to put into effect any policies of its own.

Business, industry, agriculture would have to remain in doubt for two years as to the ultimate policies of the Government. All work of reconstruction would be stopped and practically all good thus far accomplished would be lost during the period of paralysis.

Do you want to abandon the work so well begun, stagnate your Government for two years, and invite a return to the policies and conditions of the last administration, or are you in favor of going ahead with the Republican party in control of the Congress, as well as the executive offices?

MAKING MACHINERY WORK.

Governor Miller's statement to an audience at Watertown that he has demonstrated that he can "make the existing machinery work" will appeal strongly to the men and women who have watched the operation of the state government under his administration at a reduction of $20,000,000 in its cost.

"I have not asked for different machinery," said Governor Miller. "I assert that it is possible to make the existing machinery work. I claim to have demonstrated that it is possible to make the existing machinery work. I assert the existing machinery has worked, and because the existing machinery has worked, because a different spirit has been infused in the state government, because the people are satisfied that they are getting service for their money expended and that the mounting cost of government has stopped, the demand for a reorganization of the state government by constitutional amendment, which was so keen under Mr. Smith's administration, has now practically ceased."

Real genius is that which can turn to account the tools at hand and produce results with them. Of course, nobody expects to use a watchmaker's tools in repairing a state highway, or a road machine in fixing a broken crank-shaft. The machinery of government is the machinery of human intelligence responding to human impulses. Governor Miller has secured the proper kind of response by touching the reasoning power of men and women in the state government. Even then there cannot be perfect government.

"The truth is," said Governor Miller, "that you can't make the machinery of government fool-proof. It is not like Ford car. You can't by Constitutional amendment change human nature. The only way you can do that is by the selection of the agents to administer the government, and whether the machinery is good or bad, it will work well or ill according to those agents and their disposition to render public service."

Having in mind this thorough understanding of the essentials of successful government, Governor Miller started to make use of the tools at hand in carrying on the work of the state. Experienced, tested men and women whose disposition was to aid in the work of government, to give full service for every dollar expended and to curtail waste and extravagance, were retained. Their experience was valuable to the state, and Governor Miller made use of it to the best advantage. Existing departments capable of carrying additional burdens with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of cost proceeded to carry them. The existing machinery of the state continued to function in a most satisfactory way. There was no need for new tools.

Having put in practice the theory that he enunciated, Governor Miller can expect to receive the support of the men and women of the state in his campaign for re-election. People anxious to try out their own worn-out theories or anxious to provide new machinery as personified in themselves will oppose him. But the mass of voters whose interest is not so selfish, who are looking for results that are for the best interests of the state, will vote to continue Governor Miller at Albany for another term with the machinery which has been giving such satisfactory results to the people since his term of office began.

WOULD NEVER DO WITH US.

Little Portugal is likely to win the friendly and appreciative regard of pen and pencil drivers the world over by the passage in its Chamber of Deputies of an income tax bill which exempts journalists and all men and women of letters, presumably on the ground that these useful public servants are as a rule inadequately rewarded for their labors. Portugal can afford this complimentary exemption of the writing craft because its revenues will not be materially reduced thereby. It is a small country, with relatively few newspapers, magazines and book publishing firms, and even its journalists are probably not counted in very considerable numbers.

But, as the British butler in "Ruggles" so often remarked in disapproval of the social customs in a town of our West, "it would never do with us." Our novelists, other book writers and magazine short story makers are legion and as for our journalists they are almost past counting. The number even of the legitimately exempt would be appalling from the point of view of a government in need of income tax revenues to renew a treasury ever suffering from rapid exhaustion. The American government, moreover, would be literally swamped with questionable claims for exemption from millions of persons who at one time or another have "written for the papers" at least in the form of communications on countless subjects. The total of claimants, genuine and alleged, would be staggering. Perhaps a half, or even two-thirds, of our population would claim the right to be called "journalists." No; it would never do with us.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Can you tell me the right name of the ground robin?

We fancy you mean the towgee or chewink, as this is sometimes ill-named ground robin because of the reddish, rusty side patches. The breast is white in both sexes. Male Towhees have head and throat all-over black, black wings with white bars, black and white tails. Females are marked the same, only are brown where male is black.

2. What is the biggest insect in the world?

Probably the West Indian form of the Rhinoceros beetle, locally called Hercules beetle, which is 6 inches long. We have in the south and west of North America Dynastes Tityus, a rhinoceros beetle from 2 to 2½ inches. It gets its common name from the two sharp horns that meet above its head.

3. Why is the shell of the sea urchin so covered with even round patterns like pinheads in rows?

These "pinheads" are really knobs or bases on which revolve the urchin's spines. On a fresh specimen these spines appear somewhat like the teeth to a rubber nailbrush; but when dry quickly brush off. Each spine is like a slender cone that fits onto the tiny knob on which it works like a pivot. The spines aid in locomotion.

"THE DEMI-VIRGIN" HERE TUESDAY

After a year's run in New York, at the Eltinge Theater, Avery Hopwood's new romantic farce, "The Demi-Virgin," will be presented by A. H. Woods at the Opera House, Tuesday evening, October 17.

The scene of the play is the "movie" colony at Hollywood. Although the plot has a distinct leaning toward the spicy it contains some real enjoyable humor and several delicious situations which produce gales of laughter from the audience.

Wally Dean, a picture star, loses his wife on the night of their marriage. Gossip attaches to her the name of "demi-virgin." Later she returns to his film company with an English novelist on her string. Her ex-husband, in order to rouse her jealousy pretends an engagement with the ingenue of the company. This leads to complications, which are brought to a climax at a party given by the ex-wife at her home in the mountains.

Here she attempts to vamp her former husband so that she may trap him and then expose him to his pretended fiancee and her aunt, the latter an affected graduate of two marriages, who has been in Paris and since her return spends most of her time in talking misplaced French and then explaining it.

The former husband who is aware of the intentions of the former wife, allows her to lead him on, and finally as a result of her vamping plans and his desire to win her back again, he suddenly changes from the character of a vamped victim to the part of a husband and upsets all the plotting of the wife by causing the situation to become very embarrassing to her and then it develops that their divorce was illegal and that the situation they find themselves in is not at all questionable since they are man and wife. An excellent company has been gathered by Mr. Woods.

HOOCH TOO STRONG FOR SCHOONER SKIPPER.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Southampton, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The first mate and two sailors from the four-masted schooner Freeman, bound from Norfolk, Va., for Bangor, Me., with a cargo of coal, rowed ashore Friday and reported that they had the skipper in irons. They communicated with the owners and a new skipper was sent. According to the story told by the seamen, the schooner met a bootleg ship at sea, which was short of provisions, so the captain of the schooner trader some provisions for wet goods. Then he partook so liberally that he insisted on heading his schooner through a fog straight for the Long Island coast.

An ordinance relating to trimming to trees.

Passed October 5, 1917.

The Board of Public Works of the City of Kingston do ordain as follows:

Section 1.—All persons owning property abutting upon any public street, alley or lane in the city shall cause all trees or parts of trees, excepting very young trees, within the line of said street adjoining said premises to be so trimmed at all times that the branches thereof shall be at least fourteen feet above the level of the street at the lowest point, and to such an extent as to allow the sunlight to reach the street to permit the proper drying of the surface thereof.

Section 2.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

IF YOU ARE AN INVESTOR—

...e an investor, you know that investing money safely and keeping it safely invested is one of the most difficult tasks in the world. One must be a student, a statistical expert, an accountant, a lawyer, an engineer, and economist and a man absolutely without prejudice if he is to handle investment problems with success year after year.

But no man can be all of these things in full measure, and the average investor must therefore seek aid and guidance from those who have specialized in these directions. Our organization has been developed along these specialized lines, and is prepared to serve you.

THE POOL PRICE FOR SEPTEMBER MILK $2.00

The pool price for September milk, as announced by the Dairymen's League Co-Operative Association, is $2 per hundred pounds. This is the base price for milk testing three per cent butterfat in the 201-210 mile freight zone. The price to each farmer will, of course, vary according to butterfat and also according to his freight distance from market.

The price of $2.00 is the price to the dairymen after the cost of administration, advertising and other expenses has been deducted. A loan to the Association of fifteen cents a hundred pounds is made on the certificate of indebtedness plan, for the purpose of taking care of additional marketing facilities as occasion requires.

The September price is exactly $.245 more than League dairymen received for August milk, and $.38 more per hundred than for July. Checks covering payment for September milk will be mailed to the farmers on October twenty-fifth.

The train was late, even later than is usual on this particular line, and as they crawled through one station a weary traveler was heard to exclaim:

"What a villainous station this is! They try to irritate one on purpose. Look at those girls in the refreshment room! Why do they dress them all in black?"

"Don't you know," said the fellow passenger in a most solemn tone of voice, and with a look of awe on his face.

Do You Suffer the Agonies of Asthma?

C. C. FROUDE, D. C.

Asthmatic attacks usually come in the night. There is a feeling of weight around the chest, and fear of suffocation. Every breathing muscle is in violent action in the agony of effort to overcome the smothering. The face is suffused with blood and expresses the fear of the sufferer.

Persons who suffer from asthma usually have what the chiropractor calls an "asthmatic hump". It is a marked prominence of the backbone in the region between the shoulders and at the base of the neck. The chiropractor makes his principal adjustment in this region of the spine. The prospect of recovery under chiropractic spinal adjustments is extremely good.

IN SPITE OF DISBELIEF HIS ASTHMA IS GONE

"The asthmatic condition is entirely relieved, even the wheeze having left. I am now able to get a night's rest. I had consulted several specialists without relief and I was certainly skeptical of chiropractic being able to do anything for me. I consider it remarkable what this science did in my case and will always be a booster."—R. N. Bullock, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1243P.

"Let Me See."

"Do let me see it," said Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen.

"Cackle, cackle, let me see it," said Mrs White Hen.

"And I want to see it, too," said Miss Brown Hen.

"So do I," said Red Top, the Rooster. "I most certainly want to see it. Cock-a-doodle-do, pray show it to me."

"I'd like to see it," said Mrs. Duck. "Quack, quack, please let me see it."

"And I want to have a view of it too," said Sir David Duck.

"What is all the fuss about?" asked Mr. Gander, as he walked by the other barnyard animals.

"Oh, nothing for us to bother about," said Mrs. Goose.

"I thought as much," said Mr. Gander.

"Miss Hen is engaged to Robbie Rooster and all the other barnyard animals want to see the present she has been given which she calls her engagement present," Mrs. Goose explained

"I don't want to bother to see it," said Mr. Gander. "I am sure you don't want to bother either."

"No, I don't want to bother" said Mrs Goose. "Such a thing would be a waste of our time. We can't bother with the other barnyard animals.

"We prefer our own society"

"Just as we should do," said Mr Gander. "Just as we should do"

"Let me see the present," begged Mrs. Indian Runner Duck.

"I'd like to see it," said Sir William Goat, known as Billy by the barnyard friends.

"Oh, show it to us," said Mrs. White Hen.

"I can't," said Miss Hen "Cackle, cackle, it is quite impossible. I can't.

"I would if I could, but it's impossible."

"How absurd," said Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen

"Ridiculous," said Mrs. White Hen.

"Utterly nonsensical," said Miss Brown Hen.

"Too queer for words," said Red Top, the Rooster.

"I cannot understand why she says such a thing, quack, quack," said Mrs Duck.

"I don't understand, either," said Sir David Duck."

"Tell old Billy Goat," said Sir William Goat.

"You see," said Miss Hen, "I can't show you my engagement present. I told you that I had been given an engagement present, but I didn't say you could see it as that is so impossible"

"Why is it impossible? Was it such a horrid present that you are ashamed to show it to us?" asked Miss Brown Hen.

"Of course not," said Miss Hen proudly "My dear Robbie Rooster would only give me the very best

"But it is impossible to show it to you as I have eaten it! Ah, yes it was a beautiful engagement present No hen was ever given so fine and delicious a worm as Robbie picked out for me.

"He said he looked them all over and waited until he succeeded in getting the very best of all.

"But I have already eaten my engagement present And I thoroughly enjoyed it"

"So that was it," said Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen

"Our Own Society."

"How stupid of us not to have understood."

"How stupid," said Mrs White Hen

"Very stupid," said Miss Brown Hen

"You Hens should have thought of that," said Sir David Duck

"You should have thought of that, Hens, it is true," said Mrs. Duck.

"Well, I might, too, have thought that it was something you had eaten," said Billy Goat "For an engagement present that can be eaten is surely nicer than any other, is my goat opinion."

"And now they all know," said Miss Hen. "Ah, I kept them guessing while all the time I was feeling happy and contented for I had received my engagement present and had thoroughly enjoyed it."

How It Looked.

"I've been down by the river," announced little Marjory, "and I saw a man sit there and drown three worms."

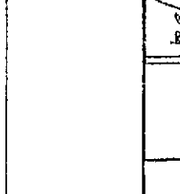
SEASONABLE DISHES



Just a plain apple pie may be made very stylish by a garnish of whipped cream into which is stirred a few spoonfuls of grated cheese.

Apple pie a la mode is so well known and liked that it need not be mentioned, yet any pie is good with a spoonful of ice cream.

Fish Pudding—Free the fish from skin and bones and flake with a fork; there should be enough to fill a quart bowl lightly pressed down. Make a soft custard with a pint of milk and the yolks of six eggs, while warm stir in one-fourth cupful of butter, salt and pepper one tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce or anchovy paste softened with a little hot water, and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Pour into a baking dish after mixing well with the fish, and bake in a slow oven.

Tomato Cocktails.—Prepare six peppers by cutting off the stem end, remove the seeds and white portion. Peel four tomatoes, cut in halves and squeeze out the seeds; chop one onion fine, put in a small cloth, tie and wash wringing out dry. Cut the tomatoes in cubes, add the onion and a light seasoning; fill the peppers and add French dressing. Dust the top with chopped parsley and serve.

Cafe Glace.—Fill iced tea glasses with cubes of ice leaving an inch space; add a lump or two of sugar and pour over hot coffee. Do not stir, but add cream immediately and serve. The flavor seems better than when the hot coffee is poured over the ice, cream and sugar.

A sweet omelet is a delicious luncheon dish. Add a teaspoonful of powdered sugar to the eggs and fruit jam or jelly is spread very thinly over the omelet before it is folded. Fresh fruits are cut fine and sprinkled with powdered sugar, spread on one-half of the omelet and fold over. In case of juicy fruits like the orange, the juice is saved and poured over the omelet, just before it goes to the table.

FINDS $50 BILL IN HAT LOST BY SOLDIER IN 1918

Lewis Schuster of Monroe, Orange county, announced Friday that he just had found a $50 bill that for four years he didn't know was in a soldier's hat he picked up during the war. In 1918 a soldier's hat blew off a train passing through Monroe on the Erie Railroad. Schuster took it home and laid it aside in case it were ever called for. He put on the hat this week and while examining the inside band found the bill tucked in it and also a photograph of a girl. He will preserve the currency, he said, and if he ever learns the identity of the owner will see that he or his relatives get it.

Buy an Overcoat For your Heating System.

Stop wasting fuel.

Insulate your furnace and heating pipes. Force the heat to go where it will make you comfortable. Don't continue to heat your cellar. It is better cool.

Or if your heating system is already covered, is that covering sufficient? What you think is an overcoat may be only a palm beach suit. If it is worth while to save heat why not save all you can?

Have us apply the correct thickness of Johns-Manville insulation—cement for the furnace and Improved Asbestocel for the heating pipes. Then you will get more heat from less fuel. The booklet, "Bare Pipes Waste Fuel," tells why. Ask for a copy.

J. H. HASBROUCK HAS ELBOW SMASHED

May Lose Left Arm or Have "Flail" Arm As Result of His Essex Hitting Saugerties Bus Early Friday Night.

John H. Hasbrouck of No. 66 West Chester street, son of the late Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck of Port Ewen, lost his left elbow and may lose the lower left arm, besides possibly suffering internal injuries, as the result of an automobile accident on the Saugerties road about 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, when Hasbrouck's car evidently became unmanageable when he [illegible] trying to avoid striking one [illegible] Klemm's Saugerties busses w[illegible] [illegible] stopped in the roadway [illegible]arge a passenger.

The Saugerties bus was on its way to Saugerties and had stopped a short distance beyond the old stone quarry near the road house of Frankie Riley to discharge a passenger. Mr. Hasbrouck was coming toward Kingston in his Essex coupe and was alone. The bus stopped at one side of the road, and Mr. Hasbrouck may have swerved out in order not to strike it or any passenger alighting from it.

In giving a wide berth to the Saugerties bus, Mr. Hasbrouck turned out just far enough to run his car partly in the ditch at the west side of the road. Immediately he turned the wheel so as to regain the road, but may have miscalculated the distance or the speed of his car, which turned diagonally across the road. His car struck the rear of the heavy bus with just sufficient force to swing the Essex at a right angle to the roadway, and it shot across the road, jumped a deep ditch on the east side of the highway and continued across a newly ploughed field for a distaance of about one hundred feet before it stopped.

The fender of the Hasbrouck car scraped the under side of the rear of the bus, knocking off the number plate and tail-light

Mr. Klemm and bus-passengers alighted from the bus and as they hurried to the car, which had come to a standstill in an upright position, were joined by many neighbors and motorists. Mr. Hasbrouck at first said he was unhurt but wanted someone to drive his car to Kingston. An examination with a flashlight disclosed blood on his coat sleeve and pieces of bone projecting through the cloth. Efforts were made to get in communication with a doctor, but meanwhile Mr. Hasbrouck recognized William Schwalbach and Kenneth Taylor of this city, who were on their way in one of Mr. Schwalbach's cars to Saugerties, and they brought him to the office of Drs. William J. and John G. O'Leary on Fair street.

The condition of Mr. Hasbrouck was such that he was hurried to the Benedictine Hospital, where there was a consultation regarding the necessity of amputation by Drs. William J. and John G. O'Leary, Dr. Frank Eastman, Dr. Mark O'Meara and Dr. Walter D. Hasbrouck.

The bones of the elbow were found to have been completely mashed and splintered for a distance extending several inches above and below the elbow, so that if the arm is not amputated Mr. Hasbrouck will have what is known as a "flail" arm. Whether he sustained internal injuries will not be known for several days.

Friends of Mr. Hasbrouck say that when driving it has been customary for him to ride with his left elbow resting on the window space of the door of his car. It is thought that he was driving in this position when he struck the Saugerties bus and that the elbow was crushed as his car scraped along the rear of the bus, or else that the first jolt as he struck the bus threw him against the door of his car and his elbow then projected so as to be crushed as his car scraped along the bus.

The left front wheel and left front fender of the Hasbrouck car were damaged as the result of the accident and the car was taken to the Schwalbach garage.

Mr. Hasbrouck has made his home in Kingston for the past two years Before being taken to the sanitarium he requested one of his friends to telephone to his wife concerning his injury, but he was suffering so greatly from the shock of the accident that he was unable to give a comprehensive account of how had happened.

In loving memory of our dear son, Arthur C. Hart, who departed this life four years ago, October 14, 1918.

Midnight stars are gleaming
Upon a lonely grave,
Where sleeps our dear sweet angel
Whom we loved but could not save.
We think of you in silence,
No eyes can see us weep.
But still within our aching hearts
Your memory we shall keep.
A shadow over our life is cast
We miss the sunshine of your face.
Four years ago you left us, dear,
In the springtime of your life
You were a bud too fair for earth
God willed to bloom in heaven.

PLANS MADE BY Y.M.C.A. AUXILIARY

The Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary began its fall and winter activities with a well attended meeting at the Association Building on Friday afternoon. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. Van Nostrand. Mrs. William Warner, chairman of the Hi-Y Auxiliary Committee, gave a very interesting report of the work of the committee already well under way. The membership even now almost doubles that of last year which was 27 members. At present there are fifty members. A Bible study class of 30 members has been organized, with Dr. Putnam Cady as instructor.

Mrs. Drake reported that last year's plan of serving the luncheons to the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs had worked out most successfully. The plan provided for the women of each church of the city serving the luncheons a month at a time.

Four new members were received into the auxiliary, Mrs. J. L. Wood, Mrs. John Kolts, Mrs. Crawford Styles and Mrs. Lyman Miller.

After considerable discussion as to ways and means of earning money for the auxiliary, it was decided to hold the customary annual sale of articles and food at the Association Building, December 7th and 8th.

Mr. Hall told the ladies about the Older Boys' Conference to be held here in Kingston Dec. 1st, 2nd and 3rd, and the auxiliary voted to give the boys a banquet in the gymnasium on Saturday evening, December 2nd.

Mrs. Simmons had charge of the program which was exceedingly unique and enjoyable. She introduced to the ladies, a lady of the yesterdays of ye olden times, who in costume sang for them several ditties of other days; spoke appropriate pieces, played "The Old Oaken Bucket" with variations upon the piano. After her entertaining, the entertainer was presented with a nosegay of chrysanthemums bearing a lovely, loveydovey card from her sweetheart. When divested of her antiquity, the lady of the yesterdays proved to be Miss Lucy Merritt, who with Mrs. Simmons was given a rising vote of thanks.

Why "The Innocents" Succeeded.

How easy it is now to understand the prodigious success of "The Innocents Abroad," appearing as it did precisely at the psychological moment, at the close of the Civil war, at the opening of the epoch of industrial pioneering, in the hour when the life of business had become obligatory upon every American man! How easy it is to understand why it was so generally used as a guidebook by Americans traveling in Europe. It attacked not only the illegitimate pretensions of the human spirit but the legitimate pretensions also. It expressly made the American business man as good as Titan and a little better; it made him feel that art and history and all the great, elevated, admirable, painful discoveries of humankind were things not worth wasting one's emotions over.—Exchange.

Change.

Chiropodists at a convention discuss the probability that women in another few generations will have only four toes.

Tight shoes are deforming and dwarfing the little toe. Instructors at swimming pools frequently comment on the number of women whose little toes have almost disappeared.

Back of this is the biological principle that nature makes additions to the body when needed, and takes away parts no longer necessary. Thus fish in Mammoth cave are blind, not needing eyes. A change of diet has made a long human organ shrivel into a small appendix.

Chew Food Thoroughly.

A point which counts much for economy whether living at home or at restaurants is a rather funny one, you may say. I have not heard it mentioned often. People usually laugh about it, but it is very true, nevertheless. That is that most people—not just the average person—but most people, do not chew their food sufficiently to get the full nutrient value from it. If food were chewed three or four times as long as it usually is, we would not eat more than half as much of it as we do. Think of cutting your meat bill right in two in the middle! And feeling better for it!—Nellie Kelso in Thrift Magazine.

Largest Book in the World.

In the British museum may be seen an Atlas which is probably the largest book in the world. It measures 5 feet 10 inches in height, 3 feet 2 inches in width, and to lift it is considered a four-man job—with a foreman to stand by and say, "Gently, now!" It is bound in leather, and eight distinct skins were used. On it are diamond-shaped spaces showing alternately the rose, thistle and harp. Three gilt clasps hold it together. This heavy tome was presented to the nation by George IV, in January, 1823.

Safe Rule to Observe.

It is a good and safe rule to sojourn in every place as if you meant to spend your life there, never omitting an opportunity of doing a kind ness, or speaking a true word, or making a friend.—John Ruskin.

Written by Avery Hopwood, the most gifted writer of farce in the country, it has the sparkle, spice and snap of a French farce tempered to the taste of American audiences. The beauty and lavishness of the production is not the least of its many attractions.

FLOWER BROUGHT BIG PRICE

English Horticulturists Paid Large Sum for American Plant With Somewhat Peculiar History.

Ten thousand dollars is an extraordinary price for a single plant; yet it was paid by English horticulturists for an orchid raised in America, the cattleya gigas alba.

This cattleya was flowered in 1910 and exhibited at an orchid show in the United States, where it was awarded a gold medal. The plant was found in 1909 in a lot of other specimens of cattleya gigas. It was only by chance that the plant was not sold for a dollar or two. The only reason was that, after most of its companions had been disposed of, this one, with some others was set aside. Finally all the specimens were potted.

To the great surprise of the horticulturists when, next spring, the plant came up, it was with pure white flowers The plant was sold in London for perhaps the highest figure that an orchid ever brought.

K. H. S. SQUAD AT PO'KEEPSIE TODAY

The Kingston High School varsity football team journeys to Poughkeepsie today to meet the team representing that place in one of the crucial games of the season. Both teams have been practicing hard for the past week in an effort to win this game which may mean the winning or losing of the Hudson valley championship. Coach Martin, of the local squad, may make several changes in the lineup today during the game. Perlmann may replace Carrol at right end for a considerable portion of the game, and Anderson may be shifted from left to the backfield, and either McLane or Disch placed on end. Very likely Disch, who has been showing a good brand of football during the last week, will start the game at right guard in place of Messinger

The Poughkeepsie papers report that all of the regular team from that place are eligible to play today and they are looking for a decisive victory over the team from this city

The result of the game will very likely be flashed on the screen at Keeney's tonight.

VENT OF VOLCANO IN CITY

Authorities of Edinburgh, Scotland, Somewhat Stirred Up by Unlooked for Discovery.

The back yard of the tenement of 39 St. Leonards hill, Edinburgh, adjacent to the king's park, has suddenly become a center of interest to geologists through the discovery, by Cuthbert Day secretary of the Edinburgh Geological society, of a volcanic vent. The place already has been visited by geologists from Norway and America, and has furnished material for some animated discussions.

The visitor walking through the "close" to the common drying green (i. e., common to all tenants, and not necessarily grassy) is confronted with the jagged, almost perpendicular, face of a small quarry, long in disuse. On this face is exposed a basalt sill, just where the once molten igneous rock was breccitted by explosion in bygone ages, and has given rise to a parasitic volcanic vent, mainly choked by basaltic debris It can be seen clearly where the local explosion, with its concomitant escape of hot volcanic gases, notably cooled the adjacent portions of the basalt sill

E B. Bailey, M A., F. G. S., of his majesty's geological survey, expounded recently his interpretation of the phenomenon to the Edinburgh Geological society His conclusions will be published in the transactions of the society.—Christian Science Monitor.

PLAYED WITH NATURAL GAS

Earliest Settlers Could Not Understand Wonderful Part It Was to Play in Civilization.

Natural gas first was used for illuminating purposes in Fredonia N. Y., early in the Nineteenth century Indians formerly inhabiting the region had legends of burning springs in Canadaway creek, a little stream running through the town Children of the early white settlers amused themselves by setting large onion stalks over fissures in the slate rock at the bed of the stream, packing them around with sand and lighting the gas which emerged from the top

The first gas well, tapping a pocket 200 feet below the surface, was drilled in 1826, the year Lafayette made his last triumphal tour of America. A lead pipe was laid on the top of the ground to pipe the fluid to the tavern where he was entertained when he passed through the town on his way from the West Lafayette commented on the new light in his journal, still preserved in Paris

Great Thoughts Born in Stillness.

All the revelations are the gift of stillness The lake must be calm if the heavens are to be reflected on its surface.—J Burnley

GRID WORK OF DOBIE

Coaches can't make football teams, but have you noticed as some football coaches migrate, their schools eventually, some very quickly, develop strong elevens? Dobie went to the Navy from the West, where his record was outstanding, and built the foundations of the strong Navy eleven. Then he contracted to rescue the vanishing gridiron glories of Cornell. The first thing he did was to startle Cornell by placing some of the regulars on the reserve and starting with speedier, uneducated players to build up the Cornell eleven.

FOOTBALL IS GREAT CHARACTER BUILDER

Makes a Man Realize What He Is Good For, Says Fisher.

Lesson Learned on Field of "Never Give Up" Will Stay With Player Through Life—Game Being Constantly Developed.

Bob Fisher, head football coach at Harvard university, sees the real value of footabll in molding the character of the players.

"My idea has always been," says Fisher, "that football, properly handled, is one of the greatest character builders to be found today.

Coach Bob Fisher.

"It brings out every bit of courage and grit that is in a man

"And that lesson learned on the football field—the lesson of 'never give up' will stay with him all his life

"It will help him over the rough sleading and keep him plugging, when other men quit

"No matter how letter perfect a team may be in the mechanical part of the game, unless the players have that proper mental viewpoint, they will not be a success."

Constant development of the game keeps a man busy, Fisher finds.

"Not only must he figure out his own mode of attack but he has to frame a defense against the other fellow's constantly changing attack," he says

"Football is still in the evolutionary stage. While at present the tendency of the game is not to increase the use of the aerial attack, you can't tell from one season to the other what new formation will be devised

"But I do not believe that any radical changes will be made

BALL GAME WAS FORFEITED

Supply of Balls Had Been Exhausted and Rival Manager Refused to Sell to Home Team.

Jack Herbert of Saginaw formerly manager of Pekin in the Illinois Missouri league tells of a game which had to be forfeited because the supply of balls had been exhausted.

In August 1912, Pekin and Canton were playing at Beardstown, Ill., to which place the game had been transferred from Pekin

Pekin was the home club under the conditions, and had to supply the balls Herbert tried to buy some from the manager of the Canton team and he refused to sell. Then the umpire gave Pekin three minutes to play No balls were available and Pekin had to forfeit in the seventh inning, although leading 6 to 4.

PITCHING OF FORMER STARS

Rare Occurrence for Home Runs to Be Made in Days of Joss, Plank and White.

The unlucky pitchers who must stand in the box in the big league parks these days and see their offerings knocked over the fence for homers at frequent intervals must weep bitter tears when it is called to their attention that in the old days the best pitchers saw such occurrences only three or four times a year. According to the dope at hand, Addie Joss, Eddie Plank and "Doc" White allowed less than two homers a season in their careers on the mound. Babe Ruth alone slammed out almost as many homers last year as Christy Mathewson allowed in his entire career.

ACTIVITIES OF BOYS' DIVISION

A large number of the members of the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. had a very enjoyable time at their rooms at the Y Friday night. The program arranged by Fred Coe, chairman of the religious and educational committees of the boys' cabinet, was carried out in fine style.

A large group assembled early in the evening and spent the time in playing games and using the equipment of the rooms to capacity.

At 8 o'clock Chairman Coe called the group to order and introduced Louis Coe, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who told the fellows about the Exposition that the Chamber was promoting. He gave an interesting talk, explaining why the Exposition was held and what would be accomplished

After this Chairman Coe with his able assistants provided refreshments for the group that were thoroughly enjoyed.

It is the plan of the boys' cabinet to hold these affairs every Friday evening. Next Friday a stereopticon talk will be given about historic New England. The following Friday Stelle's Troubadours will entertain Troops 1 and 2, B. S. A., to Organize.

Scout Executive Nesslage has alloted the Troop numbers 1, 2, 3 and 4 to the Y M. C A for Scout Troops, these in most cases being the troop numbers that the Y had during the previous Scout administration. Boys' Secretary Hall is very anxious to get the Scout work going in the Y and is arranging to reorganize the troops as soon as possible. For that reason there will be held two meetings this coming week for the boys to sign up and get their ratings so that the troops may get under way at once for the winter work.

On Monday night next week, October 16, at 7:30, the first meeting will be held. At that time all the Y members who reside in Ward 2 are expected to be at the Y if they are interesting in Scouting and want to join a troop All fellows who have been members of troops will surely be on hand to help put the new troop on its way toward the beginning of a successful Scout year

On Tuesday evening at the same hour, 7:30, the fellows who live in Ward 4, or the Highland avenue section of the city, will meet at the Y to form Troop 2 and get their troop organized

Already two Eagle Scouts have signed up to help make the Y Scout troops the most effective in the city.

Hi Y Gets a Fine Start.

The Hi Y Club of the local Y has made a fine start Many of the fellows are interested in the plans and helping to make it a real successful season Messrs Brown and Perry of the local high school are acting as faculty advisors

One of the interesting features of the club's work this year is the Bible study program. A large number of the group are meeting weekly with the Rev W J Nelson of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer for a study of the early Apostolic Church. This course, through arrangements with Principal Lewis of the high school, counts as a point toward Regents when successfully completed.

Another Bible study group will be organized for the group that is taking the Regents course in their own church Secretary Hall will probably lead this course, which will be a discussional class similar to the one conducted last year

A representative from the Newburgh Hi Y called at the Y yesterday to arrange for the Newburgh Hi Y Club to visit the local club This visitation will probably take place either November 1st or 8th.

Girls Hi Y Auxiliary.

The Girls Hi Y Auxiliary is also on the job and unless the boys organization looks carefully to their laurels, will find themselves somewhere in the rear when it comes to putting on first class activity

This group holds monthly meetings, for business and for inspirational addresses Each week they meet at the Y for Bible Study, under the leadership of Dr Cady of the Elmendorf Presbyterian Church Through the courtesy of Principal Lewis Regents counts are secured for the student upon the successful completion of the course.

Cue Roque Tournament.

The cue roque tournament among the younger members is attracting a great deal of interest. Twenty-six entries are in the first round, which must be completed by Monday evening.

Results of Last Night's Bouts.
